DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-27 are pending in the application, claims 22-27 are withdrawn from consideration.

Election/Restrictions

- 2. Applicant's election without traverse of Group I, claims 1-21, in the reply filed on August 16, 2005 is acknowledged.
- 3. Claims 22-27 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

 Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on August 16, 2005.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- 5. Claims 1-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Takeshi et al. (JP Patent No. 8-40748), see English machine translation.

Takeshi discloses a projecting film that is formed on a substrate and is deemed to have a large number of projecting parts; the projecting film is made of inorganic material (machine translation, paragraph 14). The film is deemed to comprise a first phase formed on the substrate and a second phase that is formed on a surface of the first phase and has the projecting parts. The projecting parts are deemed to have a diameter larger than a wavelength of visible light. The film has an average surface roughness Ra in the range of 20 to 200 nm (machine translation, paragraph 16). The film has a maximum surface roughness Rmax of not more than 1.5 µm (machine translation, paragraph 16). The film is deemed to have a haze factor not less than 2%, the square of the vector sum of Hunter color coordinates of not more than 5 and the scattering angle distribution is within the range of ±40°, because the film is made of an inorganic material with the claims Ra and Rmax.

The limitation "by phase separation" is a method limitation and does not determine the patentability of the product, unless the process produces unexpected results. The method of forming the product is not germane to the issue of patentability of the product itself, unless Applicant presents evidence from which the Examiner could reasonably conclude that the claimed product differs in kind from those of the prior art. MPEP 2113.

The limitations in claim 3 are deemed to be method limitation and do not determine the patentability of the product, unless the process produces unexpected results. The method of forming the product is not germane to the issue of patentability of the product itself, unless.

Applicant presents evidence from which the Examiner could reasonably conclude that the claimed product differs in kind from those of the prior art. MPEP 2113.

The limitations in claims 18-21 are deemed to be statements with regard to the intended use and are not further limiting in so far as the structure of the product is concerned. In article claims, a claimed intended use must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. MPEP § 2111.02.

Application/Control Number: 10/800,084

Art Unit: 1772
